WHAT IS PIONEERHACKS?

PioneerHacks IV is an in-person hackathon that is being hosted on the 18th of March. Our goal is to create a welcoming and collaborative environment for programmers of all levels to create programs and projects that address problems in our global community today. We hope to involve as many students as possible and promote an avid interest for computer science across a wide demographic through PioneerHacks IV.

OUR PAST

In the past, we have hosted 3 PioneerHacks, all of which were tremendously successful in-person and virtual hackathons. During PioneerHacks I in 2018, we had an outstanding attendance of 150 participants with 28 projects submitted and over 10,000 lines of code written. The next year, PioneerHacks II was hosted at the headquarters of Intel Corporation in the heart of the Silicon Valley, with 200 attendees and over 40 projects being submitted. PioneerHacks III was hosted online, and still received over 30 projects from 120+ participants from around the world. We've previously partnered with companies such as Adobe Spark and Devpost to bring interesting challenges and opportunities to our attendees.

WHY SPONSOR US?

PioneerHacks IV provides the perfect environment for students to collaborate and come together to solve real world issues. With your sponsorship, we can continue to provide this experience for our attendees. As a sponsor, your company will be able to directly impact young developers and create connections with pioneers of the future. Companies like yours continue to provide us with the resources and materials we need to promote computer science in our community and highlight the many exciting aspects of it. Currently, we have already secured a venue and are looking for support for food and prizes!
